Ingredient list

- Meat ingredients (turkey, lamb, fish) are animal sources of protein and the source of essential amino acids.
- Rice, peas and whole barley are sources of carbohydrates, plant proteins and fiber, are energy-providing components of the diet and support digestive health.
- Chicken fat is an antioxidant as well as a source of fat and essential fatty acids (particularly omega-6).
- Chondroprotectors are essential for the formation and maintenance of healthy joints, which is especially crucial for the developing bodies of puppies and adult dogs.
- Brewer's yeast is a source of protein and vitamin B.
- Vitamins and minerals are required for a balanced daily diet because they participate in a variety of metabolic processes and are components of vital hormones and enzymes.
- Fish oil is a source of omega-3 fatty acids.
- Beet pulp is a source of dietary fiber, important for the formation of intestinal microflora.
- Pumpkin and spinach are sources of dietary fiber.
- Cranberry is a source of fiber and vitamins.
- Bilberry is a source of antioxidants, has a beneficial effect on metabolic processes in the body, and strengthens the walls of blood vessels.
- Lingonberry is a source of natural antiseptics and vitamins.
- Echinacea helps support immunity.
- Yucca schidigera normalizes the balance of bacteria in the intestines.
- Rosemary is a natural antioxidant that ensures correct storage of pet food, making it safe for the pet.
- L-carnitine is responsible for energy metabolism and protects the liver.
- Green tea extract helps prevent the formation of tartar.
- Chicory is a source of inulin (a prebiotic fiber), provides the right balance of microflora.
- Apple is a source of dietary fiber and pectin, and has a positive effect on the gastrointestinal tract.
- Bran is a source of dietary fiber, which is necessary for good digestion.
- Curcuma contains antioxidants, helps reduce inflammation in the joints.

The following results were obtained on the basis of the Novosibirsk Region's SBI "Novosibirsk Regional Center of Veterinary and Sanitary Provision":

1. High palatability of all the above diets was established.
2. There is an improvement in the clinical status of the test animals.
3. Increased physical activity of the tested animals has been detected.
4. Biochemical examination established stable levels of ALT and AST as markers of normal hepatic function.
5. The criterion of stable metabolic processes is the average physiological level of serum Creatinine in all age groups of animals.
6. The observation was carried out on 196 animals, for 21 days.

We recommend BOWL WOW™ super-premium dry industrial diets for feeding small, unproductive animals and find the formula of these diets absolutely acceptable and sufficient to maintain a stable physiological condition of the pets.
